

Look!

Big Sis Cries!

Big Sis lay on a branch, looking cool. I shook on a low branch
like a fool.

Big Sis stood
tall on the wood
to make the plane zoom. She said, 'Look at this good plane
go boom!'

The plane did a loop, then
crashed with a boom! Red bits fell on our pooch, zoom!

The pooch
went woof,
what a goof!
Big Sis stood
cool, she is woof-proof!

'I need wood!'
said Big Sis. She
dug with her
tool. The pooch
grabbed a rope,
what a fool!

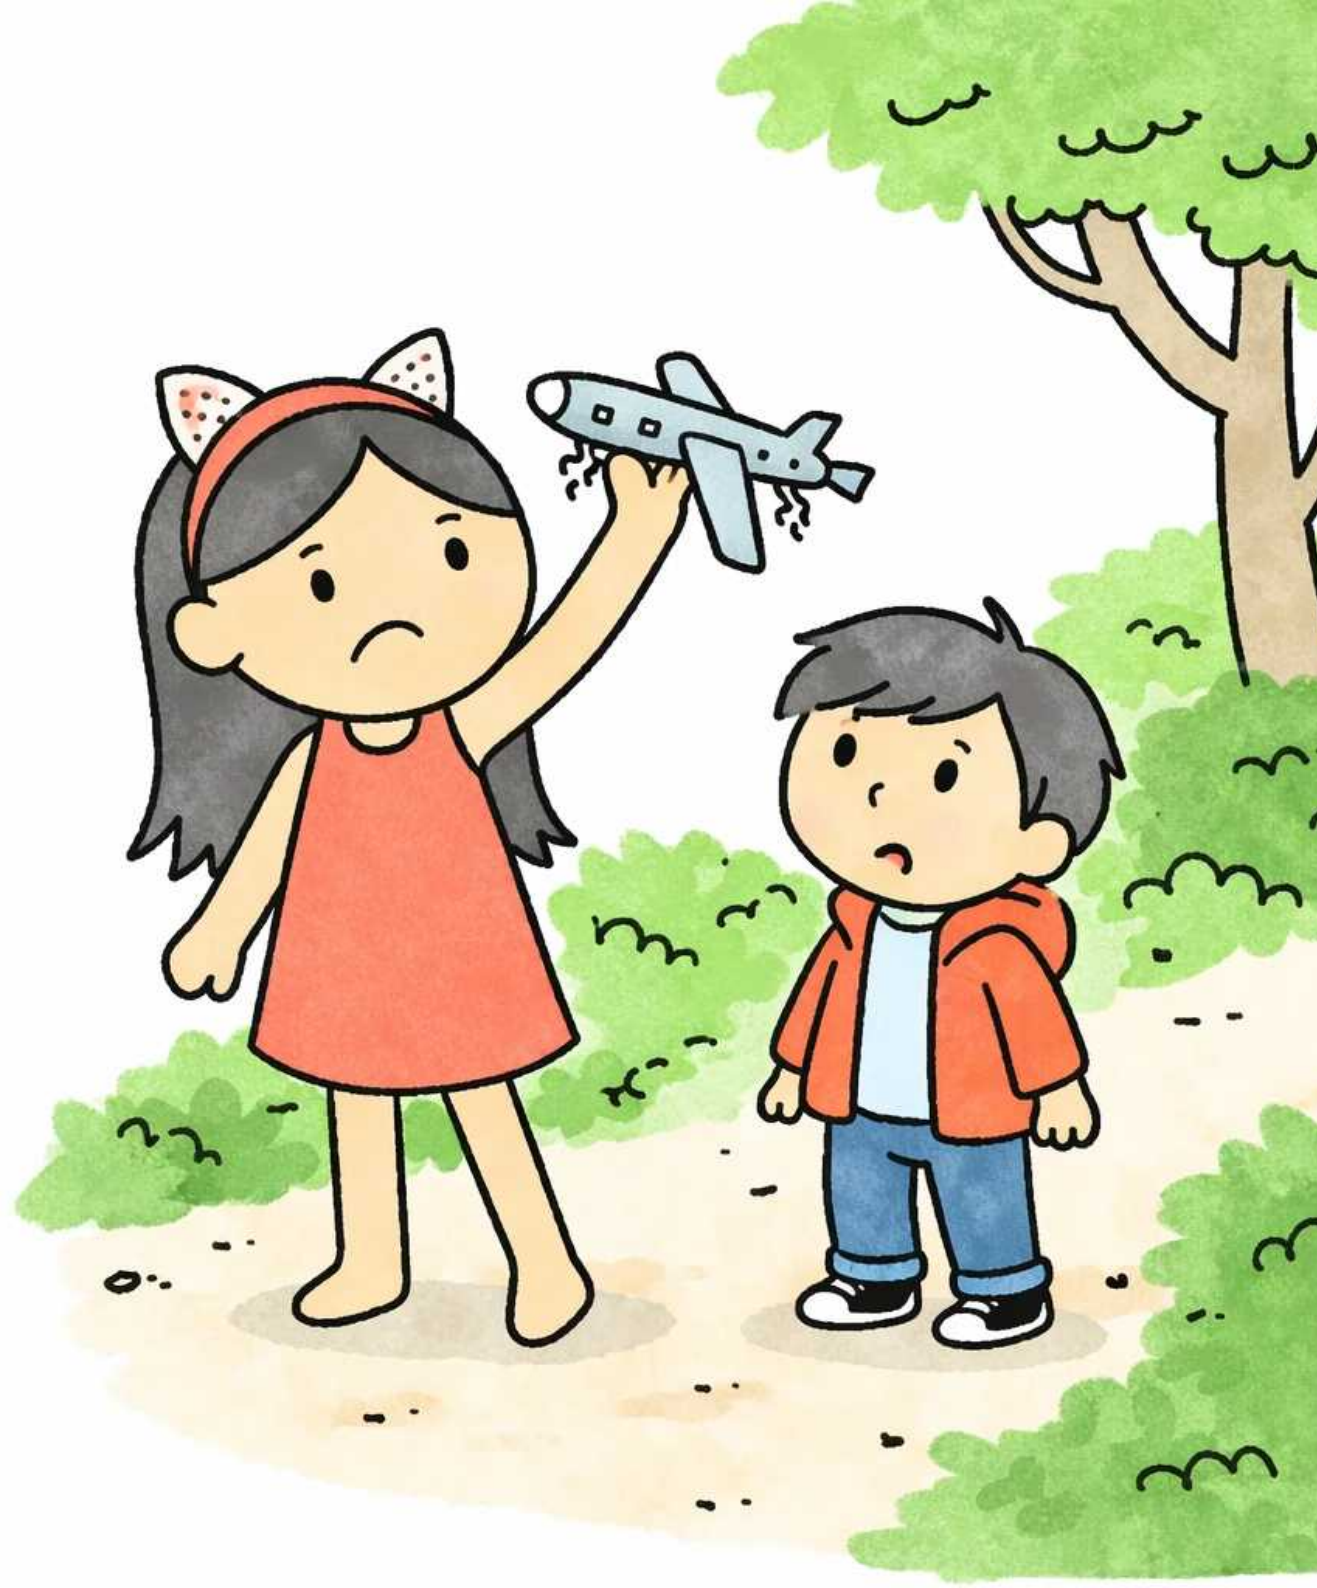

Big Sis gave the
pooch a rub, looking cool. I stood close and shook like a fool.

Big Sis tripped on a root, whoops! Down I went on her back, oops! Dog just stood and took a good look. Did Big Sis cry? No, not in this book!

Big Sis took the plane and stood. 'Some glue, some wood, it will be good!'

The plane was set, so Big Sis took a spoon to cook. She grinned and said, 'Mum's good soup needs no book!'

I stood on a stool to look. Big Sis
had tears, I shook!

Big Sis never
shook at a fall
or a spook.
What made her cry? I had to look.

'Onions!' Big Sis grinned. I fell off my
stool. Big Sis
never cries,
way too cool!

Look! Big Sis Cries!

Big Sis is the coolest person in the whole world - she climbs the tallest trees, fixes crashed toy planes, and isn't scared of anything, not even the barking pooch in the yard. But when her little brother peeks over the kitchen stool and spots real, wet tears on her cheeks, he can't believe his eyes. What could POSSIBLY make Big Sis cry? This decodable reader practises the 'oo' sound in words like 'cool,' 'stood,' 'shook,' and 'spoon.'
