FIG PIG
AND FRIENDS

RUN, FIG PIG,
RUN!

Brave Fig Pig held
his pick up high, his lamp was beaming
bright. 'I'll reach the great black coal
that this dark mine
hides from sight!'

Down he crept
where old lamps lit
the walls and rails
spread wide. Fig
Pig felt so small,
but puffed his chest out with pride.

Fig Pig spied a chest with a bright gold gleam. He gripped the sword and said, 'This is like a dream.'

Then Fig Pig saw a thick, wide web where a huge spider slept. He held his breath, sword in hand, and past the beast he crept.

Thin rails ran past a drop with
a hot red gleam.
Fig Pig felt great
dread with each step on the beam.

Fig Pig found no coal, just a sword and a dream.

Then he read the sign, squealed loud, and ran off with a scream.

Run, Fig Pig, Run!

Deep in an old, forgotten mine, brave Fig Pig marches in with his little lamp beaming and a pickaxe swung high. But what happens when he spots a chest full of gold, a sleeping beast the size of a wheelbarrow, and a narrow rail stretched across bubbling lava? Will he reach the great black coal he dreams of, or will something at the entrance send him running? This decodable reader practices the 'ea' sound in words like 'beam,' 'dream,' 'reach,' and 'scream.'
