AND FRIENDS

WHERE IS THAT SMELL?

Tip sniffs the air, a smell so
new! Snow falls down, a fine white
view!

She wakes Fig
Pig and Brat
Cat too.
'Come help me
find this smell
so new!'

Out went the crew to see the view. Snow fell soft as dusk light
grew.

No smell yet, but
the snow will do!
Tip packs and
stacks a snowman,
big and new. Its grin slips left, but Tip grins too.

They hang bright lights.
What a view!
The tree
shines red and green and blue.

Then Tip smells
something
sweet and new.
It smells just
like a warm,
rich stew!

Tip ran down
the hill, and
then she knew.
A gingerbread
house was right in view!

The crew hugs tight. What a sight! 'Merry Christmas!'
they call in the soft snow light.

Where Is That Smell?

Tip's nose wakes her up with a smell she has never sniffed before - cold, clean, and wild. What is falling from the sky? And later, when a warm, spicy scent drifts past her twitching nose, where on earth is it coming from? With Brat Cat acting very suspiciously and Fig Pig busy with the lights, Tip follows her nose on a snowy Christmas adventure. This decodable reader practices the 'ew' phonogram in words like 'new,' 'crew,' 'grew,' 'knew,' and 'stew.'
